A MAGAZINE SHOWCASING NEW FACES IN MODELING

If there's one question that gets asked a lot, it's how can I get into modeling? The reality, for most of modern history, was that you probably weren't going to. In order to be a fashion model for today's high end designers and glossy magazines, you need to hit the genetic lottery. Naturally skinny, freakishly tall, great hair and perfect skin. It's rare. But with the power of the internet, there are more outlets than ever for models who don't fit the traditional mold. Boutique designers are increasingly looking at different body types, ethnicities, and even age groups to represent their brands. Nouveau Modele aims to provide a showcase for new up and coming models. With a clean design and a photography-driven style, we offer both a printed and online environment.
